Existing painted Brick or other masonry:

- If a historic brick facade has been painted, removal of the paint and restoring the original brick is recommended. Removing existing paint from the structure should use the gentlest means possible. Consult a preservation specialist for information.
- Removing the paint is not economically feasible and building owner wants to repaint, then the paint must be applied only the area where there is evidence of existing paint, and avoiding painting original features. A minor certificate of appropriateness for ordinary repair and maintenance is required for painting. Please consult with the City of Paris Historic Preservation Officer for a list of approved Historic Colors.
